

Self-Identity Wheel

Directions: What makes you, you? Fill in the inner circle below with the things about you that form your identity. These could be factors like race, gender, culture, and values: anything that is important to making you who you are. In the outer circle, list things that people commonly assume about you, rightly or wrongly, and also things that people may be surprised to learn about you. Only include items on your Wheel that you are comfortable sharing with others.

